Much Herring In Local Water

The waters of the bay here are teeming with silver herring and a new opportunity is extended to Wrangell to get busy and catch them and have a supply for the halibut fleet. There are several of the large boats here now, and once it is a known fact that bait can be secured here many more will make Wrangell a regular calling place on the way to the fishing banks. The fishermen state that Wrangell is the only place in the country where they can get fresh bait in any quantity. Why can't we get in and keep these boats coming here? We have the goods so let's give them the service and add a large list of these big halibut boats to our regular callers.

Popular Entertainer Passes Through

Billy Woodworth, the Alaska Entertainer, and Frank Huran, pleased the audience at the Wrangell Photoshow for two nights the first of the week. Billy is a musician and singer of special merit and is well worth hearing at any time. From here the boys proceed to Petersburg and from there to Juneau where they will be with the Grand Theater in the future.

Assessments Are Not Paid

Many of the assessments against the property holders along Front Street for the new side walk put in last fall have not been paid. This is a matter that should be settled as during the past summer the city has spent considerable money on the new dam site hence putting the treasury in a bad way and the money could be used to a great advantage at the present time.

Wrangell Restaurant Is Remodded

The Wrangell Restaurant has undergone a wonderful change during the past two weeks. The entire inside of the building having been remodded and private boxes for ladies placed along the side. The place is certainly a big improvement over the old one and is a credit to the management and to our city.

Our fellow townsman Donald Sinclair received word the first of the week that at the meeting of the organization of the Alaska Shrine Club, held in Juneau on the eighteenth of the present month, he was elected one of the vice presidents.

Delegat  Pays Us A Visit

Delegate James Wickersham accompanied by his wife, arrived in Wrangell last Friday morning as per announcement, and spent a busy day meeting old friends and making new ones. He was also accompanied by Editor Russell of the Juneau Dispatch.

In the evening Judge Wickersham addressed a large crowd in Red Men's Hall on the issues of the day. Mr. Wickersham made no attempt at oratory during his address but put the issues squarely before his hearers in a matter of fact way, asking for all their support possible to aid him in better serving this great territory. In referring to his opponents, Mr. Bunnell and Mr. Brooks, he stated that he had the highest respect for both. That he knew them as good honorable Alaskans, proving however, a few inconsistencies by letters and cables.

The Sentinel has made arrangements with a first class news paper man for his services for a time so as to put us back on the level from which we have dropped on account of sickness.

After the address Delegate Wickersham was the guest of honor, together with Editor Russell, at a banquet given by the Wrangell Chamber of Commerce in the dining room of the Wrangell Hotel. Mr. J. E. Worden acted as toastmaster and the affair was a decided success in every way.

Mr. Wickersham is running on the Progressive Democratic ticket and makes his platform very plain and in accord with the best development of the Territory. And while the Sentinel is not a political organ we cannot forbear putting in a boost for Mr. Wickersham as we believe him better able to serve the immediate need of Alaska than any other man in the Territory regardless of party ties. And for what he has done for Wrangell in the past, and is doing now, we are sure that Wrangell will support Mr. Wickersham in the coming election.

England Fears Night Attack

London, Sept. 24—The fear of a night attack on England by German Zeppelins is felt and the government has ordered all night lights in the cities of England reduced to a minimum in order not to give any more guidance than than can be helped to hostile air crafts.

Servian Army Capture City

London, Sept. 24 The Servian forces have recaptured Liubovia after vigorous fighting. The Austrian forces retired with great losses.

Russian Sink German Ships

London, Sept. 24—It is reported here today that Russian cruisers have sank a German cruiser and two torpedo boats in a battle in the Baltic Sea.

Terrific Fighting Going On Now

Paris, Sept. 24—Terrific fighting has continued all day along the line at Aisne. But according to military experts there will be no changes in the line for two days.

Germans Preparing To Leave France

London, Sept. 24—Early morning advices from France state that the Germans are preparing to leave Northern France.

Pat Starts New Bakery

Another new industry was added to Wrangell's ever growing list during the past week when our old friend Pat Loftus started up his new Bakery Shop in the old Frank Nye building. There is no need to say anything about Pat's baking as he is too well known to need any introducing, but suffice to say the new show is a dandy and Pat is sure of his share of the business of the community.

New Feature For Wrangell Hotel

Manager J. G. Grant has added another feather to his popular hotel this week in the shape of furnishing his patrons with the very latest war news direct from Seattle. So if you want to know the very latest that is happening over in Europe and other places of interest drop into the Hotel of an evening.

The gasboat Spray of Ketchikan was in port last Monday. The Spray was enroute to Vank's island to get a tow in the shape of a donkey engine belonging to the McDonald Boys which was taken to Ketchikan.

M. J. Kean who was bound over to the Grand Jury on charge of larceny, was sentenced to two years in McNiels Island.

New Members In A.-B. Lodge

At the regular meeting of the Arctic Brotherhood last night three new members were taken over the mysterious Arctic Trail: they were H. Ferguson, Victor Swanson and Alfred Benson. After the trail trip of the candidates the nominations for new officers was held and at the next regular meeting the new officers will be elected. The A. B.'s is one of the best orders in the world along the entertainment line and they are figuring on some corking good times this winter so if you are not all ready an A. B. you better get busy and get in on it.

Revenue Cutter Is Total Lost

Seattle, Sept. 22—According to report from Nome the Revenue cutter Tahoma is fast on a jagged rock about ninety miles to the west of Klabo Island and is believed to be a total loss. The crew of nine officers and sixty men are in grave danger. Several vessels are rushing to her aid.

Seattle, Sept. 23—The Revenue Cutter Tahoma has been abandoned and is fast breaking up. The crew are all safe and are being taken to Nome.

OUR THANKS

For time eternal one of the unwritten laws of newspapers has been to respect the other mans misfortunes. No matter how bad enemies two papers can be, let misfortune come to one, in case of a fire or broken press, and invariable the other comes to his relief. That is newspaper brotherhood. And it was brought very clearly to our view last week when the Editor (printer and devil) was placed on the sick list, and Thursday rolled around and no printer began to look like no paper, and then the fates being on our side, Friday morning Editor Russell of the Juneau Dispatch arrived in town and and learning of the state of affairs, made for the office and after a hard days work his labor was rewarded by seeing the Sentinel on the press. And right here we want to assure him of our undying thanks, and also to our friend Mr. J. E. Worden from whose hand most of our copy came. As the old saying "a friend in need is a friend indeed" both proved their worth last week. The Sentinel has not caught up with our work yet but by next week will be.

Outskirts Of Brussels Mined

London, Sept. 24—It is believed here that the outskirts of Brussels has been mined by the Germans to prevent the Belgians falling on them in case they are compelled to retreat from France.

Tolstoy's Prophetic Vision

This startling interview with Count Leo Tolstoy was presented to the Czar in the Autumn of 1910.

The following is an interview with Count Leo Tolstoy by his great-niece, Countess Nastasia Tolstoy, in the autumn of 1910, the original copy having been presented by her to his majesty, the Czar:

"This is a revelation of events of a universal character which must shortly come to pass. Their spiritual outlines are now before my eyes. I see floating upon the surface of the sea of human fate the huge silhouette of a nude woman. She is— with her beauty, her poise, her smile, her jewels—a super-Venus. Nations rush madly after her, each of them eager to attract her especially. But she, like an eternal courtesan, flirts with all. In her hair ornament of diamonds and rubies is engraved her name 'Commercialism'. As alluring and bewitching as she seems, much destruction and agony follows in her wake. Her breath, reeking of sordid transactions, her greed are so much poison to the nations who fall victims to her charms.

"And, behold, she has three gigantic arms with three torches of universal corruption in her hand. The first torch represents the flame of war, that the beautiful courtesan carries from city to city and country. Patriotism answers with flashes of honest flame, but the end is the roar of guns and musketry.

The second torch bears the flames of bigotry and hypocrisy. It lights the lamps only in temples and on the alters of sacred institutions. It carries the seed of falsity and fanaticism. It kindles the minds that are still in cradles and follows them to their graves.

"The third torch is that of the law, that dangerous foundation of all unauthentic traditions, which first does its fatal work in the family, then sweeps through the larger worlds of literature, art and statesmanship.

"The great conflagration will start about 1912, set by the torch of the first arm in the countries of southeastern Europe. It will develop into a destructive calamity in 1913. In that year I see all Europe in flame and bleeding. I hear the lamentations of huge battlefields. But about the year 1915 a strange figure from the north—a new Napoleon—enters the stage of the bloody drama. He is a man of little militaristic training, a writer or a journalist, but in his grip most all Europe will remain until 1915. The end of the great calamity will make a new political era for the Old World. There will be left no empires and kingdoms, but the world will form a federation of the United States of Nations. There will remain only four great giants—the Anglo-Saxons, and the Latins, the Slavs and the Mongolians.

"After the year 1925 I see a change in religious sentiments. The second torch of the courtesan, has brought about the falling of the church. The ethical idea has almost vanished. Humanity is without the moral feeling. But then, a great reformer arises. He will clear the world of the relics of monotheism and lay the cornerstone of pantheism. God, soul, spirit and immortality will be moulten in a new furnace, and I see the peaceful beginning of an ethical era. The man determined to this mission is a Mongolian-Slav. He is already waiting the earth—a man of active affairs. He himself does not realize the mission assigned to him by a superior power.

"And behold the flame of the third torch, which has already begun to destroy our family relations our standard of art and morals. The relations between woman and man is accepted as a prosaic partnership of the sexes. Art has become realistic degeneracy. Political and religious disturbances have shaken the spiritual foundation of all nations. Only small spots here and there have remained untouched by those three destructive flames. The anti-national war in Europe, the class war in America and the race war in Asia have strangled progress for half a century. I see a hero of literature and art rising from the ranks of the Latins and purging the world of the tedious stuff of the obvious. It is the light of symbolism that shall outshine the light of commercialism. In place of polygamy and monogamy of today there will come poetromy—a relation of the sexes based fundamentally upon poetic conceptions of life.

"And I see the nations growing wiser, and realizing that the alluring woman of their destinies is, after all nothing but an illusion. There will be a time when the world will have no use for armies, hypocritical religions and degenerate art. Life is evolution, and evolution is development from the simple to the more complicated forms of the mind and body. I see the passing show of the world-drama in its present form, now it fades like the glow of evening upon the mountains. One motion of the hand of commercialism and a new history begins."

A SOLEMN MYSTERY.

Mark Twain Declared It Cast a Gloom Over His Whole Life.

Once upon a time Mark Twain was interviewed. After various questions the interviewer came to the question of relatives, and from then on, according to Twain's own version of things, the conversation ran thus:

"Who is this picture on the wall? Isn't that a brother of yours?"

"Oh, yes, yes! Now that you remind me of it that was a brother of mine. That's William—Bill, we called him. Poor old Bill!"

"Why, is he dead, then?"

"Ah, well, I suppose so. We never could tell. There was a great mystery about it."

"That was very, very sad. He disappeared, then?"

"Well, yes, in a general sort of way. We buried him."

"Buried him! Buried him! without knowing whether he was dead or not?"

"Oh, no; not that! He was dead enough."

"Well, I confess that I can't understand this. If you buried him and you knew he was dead?"

"No, no! We only thought he was."

"Oh, I see. He came to life again."

"I bet he didn't."

"Well, I never heard anything like this. Somebody was dead; somebody was buried. Now, where was the mystery?"

"That's just it! That's it exactly! You see, we were twins, defunct and I, and we got mixed in the bathtub when we were only two weeks old, and one of us was drowned, but we didn't know which. Some think it was Bill; some think it was me."

"Well, that was remarkable. What do you think?"

"Goodness knows! I would give whole worlds to know. This solemn, this awful mystery has cast a gloom over my whole life. But I will tell you a secret now which I have never revealed to any creature before. One of us had a peculiar mark, a large mole on the back of his left hand. That was me. That child was the one that was drowned. So you see they made an awful blunder. I was drowned, but they went and buried the wrong child. Sh-h-h-h! Don't say a thing about it where the family can hear it. It's a very sore spot."

Picks Up A Drifting Launch

During the heavy storm last Wednesday Oscar Layton discovered a launch drifting near Vank's Island, and after considerable succeeded in getting out to it and towed it into safety. The launch is about 20 feet long and powered with a five h.p. Fairbanks-Morris engine. Anyone claiming the boat are requested to present their claim to Mr. Layton.

National Forest Timber For Sale

Sealed bids will be received by the Forest Supervisor Ketchikan, Alaska, up to and including September 14, 1914, for 1,200,000 feet B. M. more or less, of Sitka spruce and Western hemlock saw timber upon a designated area beginning at a stone monument about 1-1/2 mile south of Woronofski Point thence southeasterly along the shore for a distance of approximately two miles, extending back from the shore a distance of not more than 2500 feet, located on the northeast shore of Woronofski Island, Tongass National Forest, Alaska, as shown on a map of the area. No bid of less than $1.00 per M. feet for Sitka spruce and $2.50 per M. feet for Western hemlock will be considered. Deposit with bid $500. The right to reject any and all bids reserved. Before bids are submitted full information concerning the timber, the conditions of sale, and the submission of bids should be obtained from the Forest Supervisor, Ketchikan, Alaska.

BATTLES IN THE BLOOD.

Antitoxins Fight the Germs of Their Particular Disease.

When any animal has a certain disease its body produces large quantities of the particular antitoxin that will fight that disease. If the blood of this animal be introduced into another animal the latter will get the disease, but in a milder form, and will at the same time be stimulated to secrete large quantities of the antitoxin. It is now capable of resisting an attack by an army of powerful germs and becomes "immune" to the real disease.

If its blood be drawn and filtered to free it from red and white corpuscles the serum that is left is merely the watery part of the blood heavily charged with the antitoxins of that disease. This, injected into the blood of a person suffering from it, re-enforces the antitoxins already there and speedily routs the enemy by neutralizing the poisons that the toxic germs are liberating.

Serum is prepared in two ways—one by taking it from the blood of another animal, the other by a culture from the blood of the patient himself.

There are only one or two diseases that can be cured by medicine. In all others the medicine is given merely to stimulate the natural production of antitoxins. If we knew how to make an antitoxin for every disease we should have no more use for medicine. The number of diseases for which antitoxins are being discovered is multiplying year by year. — New York World.

FRISKY SENATE PAGES.

They Are Great Mimics and Discuss Burlesque Legislation.

They are the greatest mimics in the world. They can take off the idiosyncrasies and humorous peculiarities of the senators to a "T."

Sometimes when the senate is not sitting and too many visitors and page bosses are not around to observe the proceedings the pages themselves go into a solemn senatorial session. One will impersonate the vice president, another the chief clerk, and so on. Various other boys will pretend to be either their favorite senators or the senators of home states. Each boy occupies the seat to which the real senator is entitled.

Bang! goes the vice president's gavel, and the extraordinary session of pages has convened. There is always an argument as to which senator shall be recognized when the regular order of business is reached. Every conceivable current subject is discussed, with a goodly sprinkling of "baseball legislation," which always carries with it a rider by which each page senator shall be entitled to an annual self-renewing pass for all the season's games.

A bill which is almost sure to be introduced is one which proposes to increase the salaries of the pages and shorten their hours of duty. — Robert D. Heine in Leslie's Weekly.

The Risky Test.

A young woman who was about to wed decided at the last moment to test her sweetheart. So, selecting the prettiest girl she knew, she said to her, though she knew it was a great risk: "I'll arrange for Jack to take you out tonight—a walk on the beach in the moonlight, a lobster supper and all that sort of thing—and I want you, in order to put his fidelity to the proof, to ask him for a kiss."

The other girl laughed, blushed and assented. The dangerous plot was carried out. Then the next day the girl in love visited the pretty one and said anxiously:

"Well, did you ask him?"
"No, dear."
"No? Why not?"
"I didn't get a chance. He asked me first."

The Isle of Lost Dreams.

There is an isle beyond our ken
Haunted by dreams of weary men.
Gray hopes enshadow it with wings
Weary with burdens of old things.
There the insatiate water springs
Rise with the tears of all who weep.
And deep within it, deep, oh, deep,
The furtive voice of sorrow sings.

There, evermore,
Till time be o'er,
Sad—oh, so sad—the dreams of men
Drift through the isle beyond our ken.
—Flora Macleod

The Cleverness of Wiggins.

Outside his own cleverness there is nothing that so delights Mr. Wiggins as a game of baseball, and when he gets a chance to exploit the two, both at the same time, he may be said to be the happiest man in the world. Hence it was that the other day, when little red-headed Willie Mulligan, his office boy, came sniffing into his presence to ask for the afternoon off that he might attend his grandmother's funeral, Wiggins deemed it a masterly stroke to answer:

"Why, certainly, Willie. What's more, my boy, if you'll wait for me I'll go with you."

"All right, sir," sniffed Willie as he returned to his desk and waited patiently.

And, lo and behold, poor little Willie had told the truth, and when he and Wiggins started out together the latter not only lost one of the best games of the season, but had to attend the obsequies of an old lady in whom he had no interest whatever as well. —Harnor's

Embarrassing.

Rich Flancee—Oh, this bouquet is too costly. You must take it back to the lieutenant. Valet—Oh, that's all right, miss. Since my master is engaged to you he has been able to get things on credit. —Fliegende Blätter.

Habit.

Habit is what makes one hang on to chewing gum after the flavor is gone. —Acheson Globe.

Not Guilty.

When Brother Amindab Johnsing was pastor of a colored congregation he was so forgetful of the dignity of his cloth as to join in a game of craps one night. The bones ran against him, and he lost all the Sunday school funds. For this he was duly tried, and the verdict of the tribunal was as follows:

"The Reverend Amindab Johnsing am acquitted of the sin of gambling! provided he pays the money back come next Saturday night. In the mean time the members of this congregation are warned again shooting craps with Brudder Johnsing." —New York Sun.

Our Difficult Language.

A manikin's a little man—
That simple fact no one would stump—
But a napkin's not a little nap,
And a pumpkin's not a pump.

A starling is a little star—
That's very vain to any chump—
But a strippling's not a little strip,
And a dumpling's not a little dump.

A kidlet is a little kid—
That's seen by e'en the dullest nut—
But a hamlet's not a little ham,
And a cutlet's not a little cut.

A princess is a lady prince,
But it is not held by any blent
That a mattress is a female mat
Or a buttress is a nannygoat.

Oh, English, you are strangely made!
You're not a tongue for gumps or fools!
I'll never master you, I'm afraid,
You've more exceptions than you've rules.

—Boston Herald.

The Vicious Circle.

Appropos of the rise in meat prices, Representative Redfield said the other day in Brooklyn:

"The way everything keeps going up it will soon become discouraging. I can imagine an idle savage from the tropics saying scornfully to some industrious clerk or mill operative:

"Why do you work?"
"To live."
"And why do you live?"
"Why do I live?"
"Yes, that is what I said. Why do you live?"
"Er—to work." —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
